The Simon Fraser Student Society (SFSS) is a student-led organization that exists to improve the social experience, academic and financial conditions, health and well-being of our members. We provide planning and financial assistance for campus events, advocate for issues that are important to our members, study and social spaces, and oversee the undergraduate health and dental plan. SFSS is for students, by students.

The Graduate Student Society at SFU is an independent, registered, non-profit organization. We are dynamic, member-driven, and support graduate students at SFU to achieve their personal, professional and academic goals. We provide many services to our members, including the U-Pass BC program, a comprehensive health and dental plan, and various emergency and academic grants. In addition, we represent and advocate for the interests of our members within the university and externally. To find out more, please visit our website at sfugradsociety.ca

Out on Campus

Out on Campus (OOC) is LGBTQA+ centre which provides a safer and more inclusive space on campus for people of all genders and sexualities. At our centre, you will find a resource library, a free and diverse range of safer sex supplies, buttons, a lounge space and volunteer opportunities. We run educational workshops and social events and staff are trained to provide peer support and crisis referrals to folks of all genders.

Women's Centre

The Women's Centre is a safe space for women to build community on campus. Home to a special feminist library, a resource area of folks of all genders, and a 24/7 lounge for self-identified women. The centre is an anti-oppressive space for celebration and healing on campus. Come by for free safer sex supplies, peer support, crisis referrals and volunteer opportunities!

The First Nations Student Association (FNSA) is a student organization whose mandate is two-fold: to personally, academically, and culturally support First Nations, Métis, and Inuit students (regardless of colonial-status policy); and to educate the campus community on issues that Indigenous Peoples face.

CJSF 90.1FM Radio is the campus and community radio station at SFU. But CJSF is more than just a radio station: We are a multimedia producer creating audio, video, web and social media content. We broadcast diverse music, public affairs and information programming to the whole lower mainland at 90.1FM from SFU's Burnaby Campus. You can find us in the Rotunda at TC216 (look for the speaker outside our door) or online at www.cjsf.ca

The Peak, founded in 1965, is the official student newspaper of SFU. We're a weekly publication striving to represent, empower, inform, and connect the SFU community through a diversity of content. We publish the writing, photography, and illustrations of student, and compensate them for their work. Reach out to promotions@the-peak.ca to start contributing today.

The Simon Fraser Public Interest Research Group (SFPIRG) is your student resource centre dedicated to social and environmental justice. Volunteer with a variety of initiatives, like the Outreach Team, or the Letters for The Inside program. Find the support you need to bring about your vision for a better world! Get engaged - with SFPIRG!

EmbarK is an independent, student-led nonprofit organization that aims to empower the next generation of sustainability leaders through our programs, advocacy, and grant. We provide opportunities for students to advance their personal and professional development while co-creating projects on campus in three different priority areas; Food Systems Change, Climate Action, and Social Sustainability.
